The background of the image is a photograph of an ancient Egyptian temple wall. It features intricate hieroglyphs and a large, weathered stone relief of a woman, likely the goddess Isis, wearing her characteristic headdress. The wall is made of dark stone blocks, and the lighting is dramatic, highlighting the textures and details of the carvings.

A woman with blonde hair, wearing sunglasses, a white sleeveless top, and black pants, stands barefoot on a large, weathered stone structure. The structure is part of an ancient ruin, possibly a temple or a bridge, situated on the bank of a river. The stone is light brown and shows signs of age and erosion. In the background, there are more stone structures, including a large archway and a column with a capital. The river is calm, and the sky is clear and blue. The overall scene is a mix of natural beauty and historical significance.
